

Alexander takes a 'Hike'

by Jack Meehan

Bob Alexander, a 1981 graduate from Concordia, went for a walk this past summer. His was no ordinary walk, though. Bob travelled from St. Paul, MN, to St. Louis, MO, all on foot to promote hunger awareness.

Bob, who now attends Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, first got his idea for his walk after the annual hunger-walk sponsored by CROP here in the Twin Cities in the fall of 1980. Volunteer work in which Alexander participated in El Paso, TX, and Juarez, Mexico, heightened his enthusiasm for this project. After doing this volunteer work, Bob said that that was his first real experience in dealing with poverty.

The journey from St. Paul to St. Louis took the Wilton, IA, native approximately six weeks to complete. Alexander left St. Paul on July 17 and finished the 640-mile trek on August 31.

The idea behind Bob Alexander's long walk was to call attention to the hunger situation that exists in many nations today. His hunger-walk was associated with CROP and Church World Services.

In order to understand Alexander's walk for the hungry, one must have a knowledge of the agencies he worked with in this project. CROP is the local organization that educates people on hunger and raises funds for Church World Services (CWS). CWS is a relief/development agency of over thirty Protestant and Orthodox denominations in America. Lutheran World Relief is a member of CWS.

Funds given to CROP and CWS are used for hunger education, emergency relief funds, refugees, agricultural development in under-developed nations, and food. For every dollar contributed to CWS, 90% of that goes for direct help to the needy at home and abroad. The old cliché of "Give a man a fish and he'll eat for a day; teach a man to fish and he'll eat for life" would seem very appropriate.

The hunger-awareness group here at Concordia that Alexander was closely associated with is Bread For The World. This organization exists to inform the Concordia community of hunger conditions in the world and what each person can do to help.

Although Bob left on July 17 to begin his walk, he began training approximately a month and a half in advance to condition himself. At first he started out walking two hours and then gradually worked his way to a four or five-hour walk. He also wore his backpack on these "pre-walk walks" to really get a feel of what the situation would be like.

Alexander sent off letters to Lutheran churches in towns along his route, asking if they would find a place for him to stay. All but seven responded immediately. Eventually, these seven, too, did get in touch with Bob. He was well-received at most towns and always had a place to stay.

The route which Bob followed took him along the Mississippi River, through Minnesota, Iowa, and Missouri. He usually covered about twenty miles in a day, but towards the end of his journey, Alexander walked from thirty to forty miles per day. For the most part, Bob was able to follow the schedule he set for himself pretty well. However, he did have to re-route his map once or twice because of unforeseen changes.

Alexander's walk was given much media coverage when he arrived in Rochester, MN, and Dubuque, IA, and upon completion of the walk in St. Louis, MO. Radio and television stations, as well as newspapers, covered Bob's story. T-shirts were even printed in Dubuque that said, "I walked the second mile with Bob Alexander." Bob's journey was not without its aches and pains, either. Near Dubuque he had leg and back complications. As a result, Alexander had to see chiropractors several times on the way to St. Louis.

Interesting highlights of Bob Alexander's walk-for-hunger were that in Cannon Falls, MN, Bob met up with a former olympic walker. This man gave Bob various tips on long-distance walking which greatly aided him. Also Alexander arrived in Clinton, IA, in time to attend Julie Hatteberg and Bill Doubek's wedding and so was able to see friends from CSP while on his journey.

Bob said he couldn't have completed his walk-for-hunger except by the grace of Christ. He was especially inspired by the chapel service on the day of his departure from the Twin Cities. Dr. Milton Rudnick delivered the message that day that was centered on hunger awareness. The Bethel Lutheran Church Youth Group, which Bob worked with, was also present to see him off.

The hunger issue seemed much more important to Bob after he finished his walk. His main purpose was not to make money, but rather to educate people on hunger in the world. To do this, Alexander gave various presentations at churches along his route to St. Louis.

Upon his arrival in St. Louis, Alexander headed straight for the seminary, where he had to register for classes this fall. He didn't realize, though, that there was a dress-code tradition for registration. Seminarians wear three-piece suits when they go to finalize their fall classes and Bob was wearing cut-off shorts and a T-shirt. However, seminary "officials" bent the rules and allowed Alexander to go ahead with his registration.

There has been approximately $5000 pledged for Bob Alexander's hunger-walk. $1760 of this came directly from the CSP community of faculty, staff, and students. A total of 224 people from Concordia made pledges to Bob and at this time, 116 people have paid their pledges. Of the $1760 pledged, $910.52 has already been collected. This still leaves $850 to be turned in, hopefully, by Thanksgiving. to date, the average contribution is approximately $7.85 per person.

Bob Alexander's walk this summer was no small accomplishment. He has the respect and admiration of everyone here at Concordia.

NOTE: A special thanks goes out to Lynn Karolus, Bob Hasskamp, Kevin Bergmann, and the Sept. 7th issue of "The Reporter" for information supplied.

From our President.....

Welcome

It's great to be among so many cheerful and exciting people! I appreciate this opportunity to welcome the new students and those who are returning for another year at Concordia-Saint Paul.

Our objective is to offer you an education of the highest quality. Your professors are carefully selected and capable of communicating to you the knowledge you need for your chosen vocation and for full understanding and enjoyment of life. In a very real sense they direct their attention to the development of the whole person.

There also is much for you to experience beyond the classroom. You will have an opportunity to exercise your concern for others, your personality and character and your ability to accommodate your own freedoms to those of others as you live in close proximity with 750 others. In such close living conditions you will find that patience is much more virtuous than irritation; that kindness will make your life more pleasant than selfishness; and that good manners are contagious.

It's great to see you at chapel, athletic events and all the activities on the campus. I hope you'll participate in all of them. They, too, are part of the great fun and adventure of maturing.

I'll see you around!

Take the time

by Mike Uran, Student Senate President
Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

As followers of the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ we are called to serve each other here on earth. In many instances this service does not bring us financial reward. In many instances this service does not bring us great recognition from the people around us. In many instances we may not even realize that we have provided a service. But what joy there is in heaven each time the need of a brother or sister is met!

So often when we are searching for a way to serve the Lord we look for large, important tasks. While these tasks have their place, they are not always practical in the hustle and bustle of college life. However, we can take the few minutes that it requires to share the day's events with a friend, get to know a new person during supper, or share a meaningful Bible verse with your roommate. Take the time, you might be surprised by the results!

A time to Grow

by Michael Schumacher

College: a time for personal growth and maturing.

2 hour chemistry labs.

10 page term papers.

Boring English lectures.

Athletics.

Dorm raids.

Parties at Herge's.

A lot of free time, with few restrictions.

Yet, for whatever reason it might be, a person just cannot seem to fit all of these activities into one lifetime, much less a 24-hour day which occurs only 7 times a week. Thus, whether you realize it or not, you constantly make decisions about your time, budgeting every minute of it, setting up priorities for your life. You're in college now, free to do as you please, yet responsible for everything you do.

Spiritual growth is an important part of this responsibility. 2 Peter 3:18 says, "But grow in grace and in knowing our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ." In this verse, Peter talks of spiritual growth, that is growing in one's faith in the Lord, becoming closer to Him and His promises.

At CSP, students are extremely fortunate to have many opportunities to grow spiritually. The school conducts a chapel service each weekday and two evenings a week. Each dorm floor has devotions one night a week. There are Christian organizations such as Lutheran's For Life and The Fellowship of Christian Athletes for interested students to participate in. In fact, if a person really wanted to, he could commit all of his time to these "Spiritual Life" activities, forget about all of the other aspects of school, and still run short of time. Or, he could totally neglect these activities and forget about his responsibility for spiritual growth.

Most of this spiritual growth takes place on a personal level: between you and God alone. The person who will grow or not grow will be yourself: you're responsible for everything you do. And your parents won't do this growing for you. Nor will the minister in chapel. Nor your New Testament professor. Nor your roommate. It all boils down to whether you really are willing to spend the time to grow: nobody can force you to grow, for nobody can do the growing for you.

Bible studies, especially those which take place in "Spiritual Life" organized small groups, aid in this personal growth. Just as 2 Tim. 3:17 says, "All scripture is inspired by God, and is useful for teaching the truth, rebuking error, and giving instruction for right living, so that the

by Camay Amy Schultz

This year's Homecoming festivities arrived once again with its usual anticipation and excitement. The week of Homecoming came with many new ideas and daily activities.

The week opened up with Monday being clash day. A vast array of colors and dress combinations could be seen throughout the campus. The students deviated from the typical dress code as much as they could.

The volleyball team played against St. Paul Bible College on Monday night at 7:30 p.m.

Tuesday was hat day, and a kaleidoscope of hats appeared everywhere. Unique hats of every kind and variety were visible. In addition to hat day, it was also silence is golden day. For most girls it was a test of internal strength. Every girl received a ribbon to place on her wrist, and if she spoke to any male at all, the guy got her ribbon. Many guys could be seen with an ample supply of ribbons throughout the day. Some have suggested a variation to this activity for next year; to have the guys not talk to the girls.

The soccer team played against Pillsbury on Tuesday afternoon at 3:00, losing to them, 4-2.

Wednesday came with great await. Not only was it dress formal day, but Wednesday night was coronation. This year's Royalty were: Freshman- Betsy Ahart, Tim Runtsch; Sophomores- Deanna Zimmerman, John Richter; Juniors- Emily Kitzman, Mark Spitzack; Seniors- Missy Dykes, Jim Kroonblawd, Nancy Hillmer, Joel Schuessler, Becky Mickelson, Mark Schultz, Jackie Tan, and Glenn Shelton. Crown bearers for the Royalty were Vickie Minks and Jennifer Moje. Master of Ceremonies for the evening was Jeff Walther. Who would be the new 1981 King and Queen? The Royalty and audience were both kept in suspense for a bit, while entertainment was provided by the Andrew Sisters (Kris Johnson, Linda Sund and Rachel Krause), a comedy act performed by Mary Armbricht and Amy Wuttke, a singing trio by Diane Engen, Myrna Hall, and Emily Kitzman who sang, "Top of the World," and ending the night's entertainment was Tim Bode and Paul Hillmer who sang two Dan Fogelberg selections entitled "Sea and Foam" and "Longer."

The audience sat on the edge of their seats as Jeff Walther announced the 1981 Queen Jackie Tan, and King Glenn Shelton. The Reverend Karl Petzke and Mrs. Ruth Fry, 1950 Homecoming Royalty, crowned the new King and Queen.

Homecoming Coronation, Wednesday night, Master of Ceremonies was Jeff Walther.

Thursday was Spirit Day, with many of the players opening their mailboxes finding a kiss that was sent to them. A pepfest was held in the gym that evening for all the teams. The volleyball team played against Macalester at 6:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Friday was C.S.P. shirt day with many students wearing their favorite Concordia Shirt. In the evening, a pizza party was held in the dining hall.

Saturday came with Concordia winning the football game over the Maranatha Crusaders by a score of 23 to 15. The half-time activities included a routine of the Drill Team, recognition of some of Concordia's Alumni from previous years, and also of this year's Royalty. Through a down-pour of freezing rain, the football game and half-time activities went on as planned. The evening was topped with a dance put on by the "4 Wheel Drive" in the gym.

The conclusion to the week's Homecoming festivities ended with a communion service held in the chapel Sunday morning.

Homecoming is over again for another year. Let's remember Michelle Fry and the Homecoming Committee for all the work they put into the week's festivities, making it a great success!

The annual CSP fall career day will be held November 2. This is the time when high school students will be able to get a taste of a day at Concordia. Student coordinators are Lynn Karolus and Carl Trovall.

If anyone has special interesting information on students they would like to see in the paper contact Carol Sieling. (Subject to discretion of the editor.)

WHAT'S NEW?

by Carol Sieling

Tracy Alan Beaver, of 143 Arch Street, Amery, WI, flew to Oslo, Norway, on September 7. A junior at Concordia College in St. Paul, MN, Tracy joined seventeen other American college students in an urban studies program sponsored by the Higher Education Consortium for Urban Affairs, St. Paul, MN.

The students and their faculty leaders will travel within Norway and to Denmark, Sweden and Finland during the fall term. Their academic program, based at the University of Oslo, examines the Scandinavian approach to urban planning, with special emphasis on Norwegian culture, life and language. Tracy and fellow participants will receive academic credit for their work abroad when they return to their home campuses in January.

Fellowship Council arranged for the opportunity for Big, Little, and Twin sisses to join in food and fellowship on September 16. Both new and old members of the Concordia family were treated to a picnic at the Student Union. Supper was followed by a short devotion.

On September 24 at 7:30 p.m. Concordia College was the location of an unusual sort of piano recital performed by one of our own faculty members and a guest artist. The difference in this recital was that it was with "one piano, four hands."

Carlene Helmkamp Rudnick and her sister Ruth Helmkamp Walker delighted an audience of about 150 people with a selection of piano duets that included Mozart, Barber, Ravel and Poulenc. A reception followed in the guest house.

Meet the Homecoming Royalty:

King Glenn . . .

by Sandy Bata

Our 6'3" Homecoming King, Glenn Merwin Shelton, is from Arvada, Colorado. Glenn has auburn hair and greenish-blue eyes.

When asked, "How does it feel to be CSP King," Glenn replies, "I was shocked and quite surprised!" Glenn's friends (some friends!) have been asking him, "Who stuffed the ballot box?"

Glenn is in three programs here at CSP: Director of Christian Education with a youth emphasis, Church Teacher, and Pre-Seminary programs. He plans to attend Fort Wayne Seminary next year. This is Glenn's fourth year at Concordia; however, he is a fifth year college student. Being in an accounting program, Glenn attended the University of Northern Colorado his freshman year.

Glenn loves to sing and is in Jubilate Choir.

The men of Walther Second North keep Glenn on his toes, as he is their RA.

Glenn says his favorite hobby is people!

Being a football fan, Glenn favors the Denver Broncos. Football is a spectator's sport for Glenn, but he likes to participate in downhill skiing, basketball, and bike riding. Glenn loves to run and jogs seven miles every morning. Smiling, Glenn says he wants to try sky diving and hand gliding so he can keep up to his brothers.

Olivia Newton-John is Glenn's favorite female vocalist. His favorite movie stars are Clint Eastwood and John Wayne.

Glenn's favorite Bible verse is I John 4:7-8. "Beloved, let us love one another; for love is of God and he who loves is born of God and knows God. He who does not love does not know God; for God is love." (Oxford Bible)

Finishing school, becoming a pastor, and receiving a call in line with God's will are some of Glenn's shortrange goals. Glenn's longrange goals include getting married and having a family. Glenn would like at least four children: Above and beyond being a pastor, Glenn would like to make some contribution to mankind through one of his talents, such as his writing, that they may come to the knowledge of the saving Christ.

We are proud and honored to have Glenn Shelton represent us as our 1981 Homecoming King!

Queen Jackie . . .

"I don't believe it! Me? I'm not your basic Homecoming Queen material," says Concordia's new queen Jackie Tan. Jackie says she is flattered to be our 1981 Homecoming Queen.

Queen Jackie is from Esko, Minnesota. Our 5'4½" Queen is in the Church Teacher program with an art minor. Having a Special Education concentration, Jackie hopes to some day see a special education program for the more common handicaps in most of the Lutheran schools.

Our brown-eyed, blond Queen keeps herself busy with CSP activities. Jackie plays guitar, flute, and clarinet in the band. Jackie enjoys being on an LYE team. She is secretary for Student Senate and Publicity Chairperson for the Discovery Club. Jackie is also a past president of the Fellowship Council. Jackie tutors the international students in writing skills. Out of all the activities that Jackie is involved in, her favorite is begin R.A. for Minnesota 1st. As an R.A., Jackie stresses the importance for floor unity and she loves to reach out to her girls.

Jackie's favorite Bible verse is Ephesians 3:20-21. "Now glory be to God who by His mighty power at work within us is able to do far more than we would ever dare to ask or even dream of--infinitely beyond our highest prayers, desires, thoughts, or hopes. May He be given glory forever and ever through endless ages because of His master plan of salvation for the church through Jesus Christ." (The Living Bible) "I like it because it says Christ helps me to do everything that I attempt," explains Jackie.

Jackie's favorite stars are Katherine Hepburn and Alan Alda.

Being an art minor, Jackie loves to draw. She likes especially to sketch animals and people. Jackie usually likes to include a verse or saying on her drawings. Her art work is usually given away as gifts to her family and friends.

According to the majority of the students, Jackie is indeed "Concordia Homecoming Queen material."

Comets 'slip' by Crusaders

by Mike Schumacher

In yet another episode of the Concordia College football team's quest for a conference title, the Comets slipped past the Maranatha Crusaders by a score of 23-15, before a drenched Homecoming crowd at Dunning Field in St. Paul. Paced by the excellent performances of halfbacks Jim Brown and Doug Jezwinski, and a defense which forced 6 turnovers, CSP ran its unbeaten conference record up to 3-0, and its overall season log to 3-1.

The contest was one of contrasts, not only weather-wise, but also performance-wise, as the Comets took advantage of the dry first half weather to spring to a 17-0 lead before halftime. Sid Phillips put the Comets on the board first, as he grabbed a deflected Bill Brooks pass on the second play of scrimmage and ran it in for a 65 yard touchdown.

In the second quarter, Bill Brooks scrambled 11 yards on a quarterback keeper, and Russ Schwichtenberg hit Joe LaBuda for the two point conversion, putting CSP ahead 14-0. Moments later, Tom Hardin kicked a 37 yard field goal and his team had a 17 point halftime lead.

CSP got off to a much slower start in the second half, as they seemed unable to move the ball on the now slippery turf. A fourth quarter touchdown by Mike Shellman off a blocked punt brought the Crusaders within striking distance, but Jezwinski's 53 yard TD put the game on ice, although a Crusader TD by Mark Goetsch did make the final score seem closer than the game actually was.

The explosive Comet offense again had a fine day as it ran up 368 yards in total offense. "Duke" Jezwinski led the CSP rushers with 135 yards on 20 carries while Jim Brown was close behind with 103 yards on 24 carries. Wide receiver Sid Phillips also had a good day as he accumulated 121 yards on 6 pass receptions.

But once more, the Comet defense was the deciding factor in the game. As they played a solid first half, the Comets were able to hold the Crusaders scoreless for three quarters of the game, until a late rally by the Crusaders made the score close. An impressive goal live stand late in the game should also be highlighted, as it was a key factor in helping the Comets preserve their victory. Freshman Kevin Wall was the defensive hero of the game, as 8 solo tackles, 2 assists, 2 fumble recoveries, and 1 interception led the Comets toward victory.

R. Schwichtenberg directs Comets during Maranatha Homecoming game.

Soccer kicks off new season

by Kirk Lee

The Concordia Soccer Team is off to a strong start defending its National Championship. The Comets won the National Little College Athletic Association (NLCAA) National Tournament last year.

The team, however, lost many players from its championship team and so had a lot of rebuilding to do during its soccer camp which was held during the two weeks prior to the beginning of school. Over half of the 25 players are new this year. The new team members have done a good job filling the holes left by last year's seniors and combined with the experienced leadership from the returning players, have enabled Coach Hendrickson to field a well balanced team.

The Comets opened their season against St. Olaf. Although they played well, they came away with a 0-3 loss. They bounced back quickly with a four game winning streak. They downed Golden Valley 3-1, St. Paul Bible 5-3, and North Central twice 6-1 and 3-0. They lost their conference opener to Pillsbury 4-2. The Concordia team then battled Mt. Senario in its Homecoming game. After a hard played game including an overtime period, the game ended in a 2-2 tie. This brings the Comet's record to 4-2-1.

The scoring attack has been spread among several people. Ali Abushagor, Mike Ebertz, Joel Schuessler, Dan Erdman, Gus Kiss, Ahmad Al-Dakan, Augustin Gueye and Dan Schmiel have all contributed goals. This is one of the best starts the Comets have had and they are looking forward to continuing their strong start and defending their National Title.

VB fortunes at CSP.

by Tim Matzke

Though some of you may not be aware of it yet, we have an exciting volleyball team here at Concordia. They are a good group of girls who are putting in a lot of time and hard work into making the Comets a team to be reckoned with. At the same time they are also having a lot of fun.

The team has been having its ups and downs this season, particularly the junior varsity squad, but Coach Hollrah feels that continued work and determination will pay off when the wins and losses are tallied up at the end of the season. They have some tough competitors coming up yet this season, but I'm sure that they will be up and ready to challenge any of them.

There are also rumors afloat that the band will be playing for one of the three home games left in October. So all you sports fans come on over to the LMC on the 12th, the 24th, or the 30th and let's show the volleyball team that we are behind them all the way.

Band plays in L.H. Rally

by Lisa Ann Trembath

The Mayo Civic Arena in Rochester, Minnesota, October 4, was the setting for the 1981 Lutheran Hour Rally, and the CSP Band was an active part of the celebration. Professor Richard Norris led the 41 band members in accompanying the hymn-fest at 2:30 pm and several hymns during the Rally at 3:00.

Dr Oswald Hoffman, one of Concordia's most distinguished alumni, was the featured speaker at the rally, and gave a special greeting to the band. "What a BAND!" he exclaimed to the crowd as he acknowledged the various groups involved in the service. Earlier in the morning, after the band played for the 8:00 church service at Trinity Lutheran, Rochester, Dr. Hoffman came up to the balcony to thank Professor Norris and to personally congratulate the band on a fine performance. "We made Dr. Hoffman an honorary band member at the first rally we played, in 1977. He makes a special point to stop and talk to us each time we play at a rally or service he's attending," said Norris.

This is the third Lutheran Hour Rally for the band, the first two being 1977 at Mountain Lake, Minnesota, and 1980 in Minneapolis. Playing at gatherings such as the Rally is one way to spread the musical message of Concordia. "I feel we reach more congregations and people through rallies and gatherings than we could possibly hope to reach through individual services," explained Norris. "It's a kind of P.R. for the band and excellent P.R. for the college."

Sunday was a long day for the band members. The bus left from the Music Building at 5:30 am and arrived in Rochester about 7:00, in time for the early church service at Trinity. After the second service, and a chicken dinner served by members of the congregation, the band rode to the arena where the Rally was being held. In addition to accompanying hymns, the band played several preludes: "Alleluia Laudamus Te," "Wake, Awake," and "Gloria," a special hymn selection, "God of Our Fathers," and the postlude, "Sine Nomine." During a verse of a hymn, the band was featured vocally also. Four band members accompanied the Rally's children's choir on Orff instruments.

Travel expenses for the band were paid by Rochester area churches.
